UNERAL TRAIN IS IN IOWA

enty-seven Minutes Late—Reverent Throngs With Bared Heads Increase as Train Speeds Eastward —Mrs. Harding Bears Up Well.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Blairstown, Ia., Aug. 6.—Speeding long at a fast clip the funeral train President Harding passed through s city at 9:28 a. m. today. The ain was twenty-seven minutes beind schedule.

Aboard the Harding funeral train route to Washington Aug. 6.—The ople of the great Mississippi val-y, among whom Warren G. Hard-g, in the full flush of vigorous life, oved and paid eloquent tribute to ly a few weeks ago, returned that ibute a thousandfold today.

In the towns, at the crossroads and the miles upon miles of wasting rnfields that extended as far as the e could see on either side of the ute, thousands came today to stand covered and quietly respectful as e long black train rushed by.

Sometimes the train stopped; metimes it scarcely slackened speed t whether it halted or not there s at every station and crossroads e same silent bare headed reverenl throng.

Usually there was a color guard, e brightness of the flag dimmed by e unwonted streamers of black rpe.

Even in the green cornfields the rmers halted their work and their ams to come to the fence to stand, ts in hand, and thus mutely exess their sorrow at the untimely ssing of him who little more than month ago discarded his silk hat d his presidential dignity that he ght mingle democratically with em in the fields and learn at first nd their problems.

From Omaha early this morning e funeral train swept into Iowa and tled down for a day's run which nightfall will bring it within the rders of President Harding's home ate of Ohio and less than 24 hours stant from the national capital.

A stop of 15 minutes was made at maha to change engines and move e train from the Union Pacific to e Northwestern lines for the run to icago. Chicago will be reached rtly after three o'clock this afteon and there the train will be itched to the Baltimore and Ohio stem for the run to Washington.

Mrs. Harding is slowly and methically gathering strength for the ing ordeal that awaits her in the pital and at Marion, where the esident's remains will be interred Friday. No more difficult week er confronted any woman. Realing this, she is spending most of r time in bed obtaining as much st as is possible against the time hen she will stand sorely in need all the slim strength and taut rve.

She has at least convinced even e skeptical doctors, however, that e will be able to withstand the rain of the two sad home comings. ne of them told the International ews Service correspondent today at when the train left San Franco Friday night he was gravely arful there would be a collapse en ute but that now he felt sure of s patient.

Courageously and with that amazg strength of will which continues evoke the admiration of those out her, Mrs. Harding has gather-herself together and has even giv-some thought to the future. hile she has not made any definite ans and will not until after this ing week is over, it is understood that she will not make her me in Washington. In this reect, she will, her friends say, folw the example of Mrs. Theodore osevelt, reside away from the capl with its intimate association and hen she visits Washington from me to time it will not be as the dow of a president but as a private sitor.

Announcement from Marion that rs. Harding will make her home the immediate future with Dr. d Mrs. Charles E. Sawyer at their ace on the outskirts of Marion, is garded by her friends aboard the ain as premature. She probably ill return to Marion after the sorful days of moving from the hite House are completed, but hether she will reside with the wyers or at the home of her other in Marion has not been deded.

Ultimately, she has told her ends, she would like to travel a abroad if her health permits.

Thus far, the funeral trip from e far west coast has been an ocal one for speed and smoothss of travel. The only untoward ent across the nearly two thousd miles of desert, mountain and ain, was the throwing of a shoe by e engine at Chappel, Nebraska. te Sunday but fortunately it came a time when the train had slowdown for the approaching staon. The mishap was inconsetential except that it necessitated e hurried drafting of a new engine om a nearby passenger train.

Throughout the night the train n steadily away from a severe under and electrical storm which s constantly on its heels. The in only escaped from the rain and htning when it crossed the Missri river early this morning and uck out through the Iowa grain lt. Officials aboard the train reive assurance from Washington day that Mrs. Harding's desire for e capital ceremonies to follow the recedents established in the rites President McKinley will be card out to the letter.

There is a remarkable similarity the careers and lives of these o Ohio presidents which is frenently commented upon by those oard the funeral train. Each had served the state in Columbus and in congress before going to the White House. Each was known for his sane conservatism and kindly human qualities and each expired during his term of office.

Even in their domestic lives the parallel extends. Mrs. McKinley's health was, after a severe illness, very precarious and her husband was ever solicitous of her physical well-being, even as President Harding was so tenderly watchful of Mrs. Harding ever since her severe illness a year ago, and yet, despite her illness, has survived him who was looked upon but a month ago as a picture of health and vigor.

SILENT PRAYER AT M. E. SERVICES

For Divine Guidance for Nation as Leadership Changes Hands and For Those Who Survive Harding.

All the congregation of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church devoted two minutes to silent prayer in honor of the late President Harding. The pastor requested that in their prayer they especially pray for the nation, for Mrs. Harding, the aged father of the late president and the new chief executive.

The Rev. R. A. Greenwell preached at both services Sunday but announced that his vacation would begin this week and the Rev. James H. Bennett of Hudson will fill the pulpit both morning and evening next Sunday. The Rev. Harry Williams of Hancock will preach one Sunday, the Rev. M. Sheridan Pressey of Fleischmanns, taking one service. Mr. Greenwell expects to return in time to preach the Labor Day sermon, Sunday, September 2nd.

The plans for the big clambake are completed. The program will be carried out rain or shine. If it is a fair day, the dinner will be served out doors on the parking space at the State Armory. If stormy, it will be served in the building. There will be not waiting on the part of those who sit at the tables.

Tickets for this bake can be secured up until midnight tonight by a telephone communication with either R. A. Greenwell or B. F. Hammond.

MOURN FOR HARDING AT SPRING ST. CHURCH

At the Spring Street Lutheran Church the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz at the close of the service Sunday morning feelingly referred to the death of the late President Harding and said:

"As citizens and Christians we deeply deplore the sudden and untimely death of the late President Harding and join in the national bereavement. We pray God to comfort and console the bereaved ones of the deceased, to sustain and preserve our nation, and to give grace and wisdom to our new chief magistrate, enabling him to guide and direct the affairs of the government and render faithful service to our country and the world at large."

The large congregation then arose and sang "God bless our native land."

SUNDAY'S STORM A VIOLENT ONE

Knocked Down Trees and Wires and Blocked Traffic Temporarily on Main Road—More Telephones and Gas Company Equipment Damaged.

A severe electric storm broke over this city and the surrounding country shortly after two o'clock Sunday afternoon. The rain was accompanied by high winds and considerable hail. In various sections of the county the wind did considerable damage, blowing down numerous trees and causing a great amount of damage to electric and telephone wires. The most severe part of the storm was to the north of the city.

Just above the city line in the town of Ulster, eight large maple trees 50 feet apart were blown down, blocking Albany avenue for a considerable length of time. The most severe wind swept through this section and numerous trees were blown down in the path of the storm. The trees were on the Andrew Kraus property just north of the city line and were blown down across the road, carrying along with them the wires. Hundreds of machine carrying Sunday afternoon pleasure seekers were halted for a long time by the blockade which was finally cleared up sufficiently to allow one line of traffic to pass. Some of the people who learned of the blockade detoured by way of Glasco and the Flatbush road to the city. Letter Carrier Charles Johnson directed and aided a volunteer force in making a one-way path through the fallen trees.

The sheriff's office was notified of the blockade and a force of deputies under the direction of Sheriff Kolts went to the scene where with the assistance of State Troopers they directed traffic. Supervisor Frank Brink was notified of the trouble and soon had the town superintendent out with a force of men clearing up the road. Motorcycle Officer Soper and State Trooper Milton directed traffic until the arrival of the sheriff.

Nearly across the road several more trees were blown on railroad property along the Mountain View House and in the yard of Mr. Richter just north of the blockade several large branches were torn from trees.

Across the river just above Rhinecliff the storm was exceptionally severe and several trees were blown down across the road. They were quickly cleared up and traffic was not delayed for any considerable length of time.

To the south of the city the storm was not so severe and at Ulster Park no rain fell during the day.

The New York Telephone Company was again hit hard. The employes after working faithfully repairing the damage done to 40 lines and 100 stations the result of the severe electric storm of Friday afternoon, were compelled again Sunday afternoon to go over 60 lines and 100 stations. The employes were pressed back into service as the storm waned and worked late into the night getting as many of the lines back into service as was possible. Work was begun again today repairing the remaining lines and stations. It is expected that the work of repairing the rest of the damage will be completed today.

A miniature tornado blew the huge seattle on the roof of the City Home on Flatbush avenue a distance of twenty feet, and snapped off two large maple trees at the butt, hurling them across Flatbush avenue, which was blocked to traffic for some time until the trees could be removed. About fifty automobiles were held up until Superintendent Edmonston and a volunteer force could remove the trees from the road.

On the City Home property several large apple and cherry trees were hurled down, and Superintendent Edmonston Sunday estimated the damage at fully $300.

The only interruption in the electric light service as a result of the storm on Sunday was that caused by the trees tearing the wires down on Albany avenue. This cut the circuit at the intersection of Foxhall avenue and Albany avenue. The power in the vicinity of Legg's Mills, due to this interruption, was off for about three hours.

At the time the bolt struck her the girl was standing by a screen door and the print of the screen is still on the end of her nose.

AN AUTO CRASH NEAR CITY HALL

Arthur Short's Overland Touring Car Badly Damaged When Struck by Ford Truck Driven by Able Bahl—Other Auto Accidents Reported Over Week End.

This morning a terrific crash heard for several blocks drew a large number of people to the entrance to the Kingston High School on Broadway, where it was found that the Overland touring car owned and driven by Arthur Short of 6 Webster street had been rammed in the rear by a Ford truck driven by Able Bahl of lower Broadway.

From Short's story of the accident he had turned out of Andrew street in his car and was driving up Broadway and as he was about to turn into the high school grounds he signalled with his hand and proceeded to turn in the street.

As he did so the Ford truck rammed into the rear of the Overland, swinging it completely around. Fortunately those in the Overland were uninjured. With Short was riding his wife and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Sutton. They are working at the high school building.

In the Ford truck with Mr. Bahl was riding Tony Nicholas of 9 East Pierpont street, who was hurled out of the seat of the Ford and shot across the car tracks on his face and stomach. He was cut about the face.

Bahl claimed he was only driving 15 miles an hour at the time he struck the Overland, but spectators who saw the condition of the Overland wonder how a Ford traveling at that rate of speed could do so much damage. The Ford truck was not badly damaged.

TO THE PEOPLE OF KINGSTON:

Almighty God, in the exercise of His great wisdom, having taken from the People of the United States, Warren Gamaliel Harding, their beloved President, it is fitting that the sorrow which fills the hearts of the people of this ancient and patriotic community, should find fitting expression.

300-YEAR-OLD TREE BLOWN DOWN

On Hasbrouck Property on Strand—Has Borne Pears Since Pioneers Who Built Kingston Were Children.

The brief but violent storm of Sunday afternoon did one thing that no other gale in three hundred years has been able to do. It blew down a pear tree on the old Hasbrouck property on the Strand near Broadway, now occupied by Mrs. Mary H. Preston, which a deed in the possession of Abraham Hasbrouck dated 250 years ago mentions as being a "large pear tree." Mr. Hasbrouck, who examined the tree after it fell, said it was remarkable that it had not come down sooner, since the bottom part of the trunk was hollow, with but an inch or two of sound wood as a shell and several openings in this which have long afforded the children an attractive place to play. The stump was four feet in diameter.

The tree had borne excellent pears with about the same regularity as other trees in this vicinity which are infants compared to it and in 1875 Abraham Hasbrouck attached a bottle to one of the small pears early in the spring and allowed the pear to grow in the bottle. When it had nearly filled the bottle he poured in a preservative liquid and still possesses bottle and pear in good condition.

Thomas Chambers, who came from England and was the original patentee of the land in this section, was buried on the same slope and about fifty feet from the tree and a gravestone dated April 8, 1694, marked the spot until 1875, when Jansen Hasbrouck built the present house and put the gravestone into the foundation wall. The remains of Thomas Chambers had been removed and reinterred in Montrepose Cemetery in 1850.

Prizes have been awarded at different times for stories and photos of the oldest tree in New York state but this tree is not known to have been mentioned.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BOOK FOR FROGS

"Early this summer," said Billie Brownie to his brother Bennie Brownie, "I went to call on the Frogs at Frog Hollow.

"How much I did enjoy hearing their history. They are so enormously proud of it, too.

"They told me of their changes in costumes and shapes, and of how much longer it took old Mr. Bull Frog to become a Bull Frog than it did for some of the little Peepers to grow up.

"I really think frogs are fascinating creatures, and I wrote them a book of a poems. But I dedicated it to the Frogs of Frog Hollow and put in my dedication these words—"

But Bennie Brownie interrupted him.

"Pray tell me, Billie, what a dedication is."

"I'm not so very sure myself, to be quite frank with you," said Billie, "but it is something that people put in their books—just a few words of sweet sentiment and they address it to some particular person.

"They call it dedicating their book to that particular person and it's a great honor for an author to show the person to whom the book is being dedicated."

"But the book might be a poor book," said Bennie Brownie

"True, Bennie; that's true."

"Would that be an honor?" asked Bennie.

"I'm not sure, I'm not quite sure," said Billie, "but I think that it would be an honor in any case, even if the book didn't happen to be so good.

"I meant it to be an honor when I dedicated my book to the Frogs, and it wasn't such a fine book.

"I had it nicely bound in birch-bark covers and there were some charming pictures—I didn't do those—so I can fully praise them.

"But the dedication—I was going to tell you of the dedication.

"I had in the front of the book these words:

"'This book of simple verses is dedicated to my friends The Frogs of Frog Hollow in grateful remembrance of many happy hours spent listening to them croaking and gurgling.'"

"Did they like having you speak of their croaking and their gurgling?" asked Bennie Brownie.

"Enormously, enormously," said Billie Brownie

"Had you spent so many hours with them?" Bennie asked.

"Not so very many," said Billie, "but quite a few. And besides, Bennie, that is the correct way to dedicate a book.

"I thought of making it a little different but then I didn't, for an author must be dignified, you know. Oh yes, indeed, an author must be very dignified and so I thought it was best to stick to the good old ways of dedicating, and that was a good kind of a dedication as dedications go.

"And then the poems! Ah me, Bennie Brownie, the poems were wonderfully strange."

"Wonderfully strange?" repeated Bennie Brownie.

"I mean," said Billie, "that it was wonderful to think of what a strange idea any one could have of poetry. But I will recite you one of my poems—there were not many in the whole book—but I will spare your feelings and only recite one.

Here it is:

"Dear Frogs,
On logs,
Nice Folk,
Do croak'
Eat a fly
So they'll die.
They are bad,
So it's not sad,
To eat them up
As you sup!"

There should be, methinks, as little merit in loving a woman for her beauty as in loving a man for his prosperity; both are subject to change.—Pope.

HOT-WEATHER DRINKS

A drink that refreshes and nourishes at the same time may have orange juice, egg, milk, cocoa, or a combination of any two which go well together.

Egg nog, prepared with beaten egg, milk and a dash of nutmeg, or a little flavoring extract, may be chilled with ice and, though a real food, be given as a drink.

There is nothing that so quenches thirst on a hot day as does good, cold water; combined with lemon juice and sugar or other fruit juice, and ice, we have a punch. If a bottle of charged water is added to give it snap it is more appealing to the taste.

A drink which is enjoyed by many is iced grape juice, with a few spoonfuls of ginger ale added just as it is served.

Lime juice, pineapple juice, raspberry shrub or jelly dissolved and added to a pitcher of lemonade will make a drink which is different.

Be sure to insure the family for the hot weather of another summer by putting up all the grape juice in every available jar which will seal air-tight.

Place one cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of ripe, fresh grapes in a two-quart jar, fill it with boiling water—be sure the jars are sterilized and that the water is boiling—fill to overflowing and seal at once. This grape juice has all of the aroma and flavor of the grape which is often lacking in the cooked product; that is, in the cooked and strained juice. When to be used, drain from the fruit and use without diluting with water.

Iced tea is much better in flavor if prepared fresh and poured over enough ice to cool it. Serve with lemon, chopped pineapple, ginger or as one's taste dictates.

A cold cup of coffee or cocoa is often enjoyed. With a spoonful of ice cream in the glass one has a dainty dessert.

To prepare the cocoa syrup, cook it in water with sugar to sweeten, cool and bottle. Add a little to a glass of crushed ice, serve with cream—plain whipped or ice cream.

LEAFHOPPERS QUIT TREES FOR POTATO VINES.

Recent studies at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva have revealed the fact that the "burning" of potato vines, so noticeable during July and August, is caused to a large extent by the feeding of small, greenish insects known as leafhoppers, which congregate on the under sides of the leaves. The station specialists assert that these are the same hoppers that are found on young apple trees earlier and that, as the potatoes appear above ground, they leave the apples and begin feeding and egg laying on the potato vines. These pests can be found on the potatoes in all stages of development for the remainder of the season.

Observations in the station potato fields indicate that hoppers can be held in check with three or four applications of a spray mixture containing 5 pounds of copper sulfate or blue vitriol, 10 pounds of lime, 2½ pounds of powdered lead arsenate and 50 gallons of water.

Growers are especially warned to apply the spray to the under sides of the leaves.

The Court of Last Appeal

YOU are the judge and the jury. Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The manufacturer who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparison. He directs your attention to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his business career. It would be business suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisments you find in this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

"HELP WANTED" SIGNS ARE OUT

"Two Jobs For Every Man In This Part of Country," Says Employment Agencies—Wages Like Those of War Times For Those "Strong in the Back."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 6.—"Help Wanted."

This is the cry of the east today. From Burling Slip in New York's water front, through the up-state farm country, and into the mill towns of Pennsylvania, labor—any kind at all—has a market approaching the heyday of war times.

Twenty-five of the largest employment agencies in New York gave this as their experience today. But, say these employers of labor, 1923 is the year of the "strong back profession." It is the laborer who is making the "big money." The white collar man is not doing so well, comparatively.

"Every man and woman in the United States can be working today—there is no such thing as an unemployment problem," said William J. Gallagher, in charge of the Knights of Columbus employment bureau.

Gallagher had calls for 81 bricklayers at $13.50 an eight hour day; 38 carpenters at $9; 14 plumbers at $9; 17 plasterers at $12; all the common labor he can supply at from $7.50 to $9; all the motor mechanicans he can find at 74 cents an hour with an offer of $400 a year bonus if the man will remain on the job 12 months.

E. J. Rowan, placing only college trained men, exhibited his list.

"Six civil engineers $200 to $235 a month, three electrical engineers $200 to $220; nine mechanical engineers $225 to $250."

Others in touch with the employment situation said:

"Sister Mary Sebastian, in charge of the Home for Irish immigrant girls—maids, dining room girls and servants for private homes command $40 a month, experience unnecessary. We have ten jobs to one girl seeking employment."

Charles P. McDermott, specialist in hotel help—"Heaven help the hotel man" Jobs are open at prices ranging from $40 a month for hall boys to as high as $100 with room and board."

Miss Grace Houston, supplying stenographers, bookkeepers and secretaries—"I have five jobs to one girl at wages ranging from $18 a week for beginners to positions commanding as high as $300 a month."

Henry Curran, commissioner of immigration—"I believe cooking is the best profession for women today. I have had hundreds of calls for girls who can cook, directed to me by New York housewives. Wages of $150 a month with room and board are not uncommon."

Paul J. Driscoll, agent for over a score of trans-Atlantic steamship lines—"Mess boys can make $40 a month; firemen, $90; deck hands, $65, wages never before equalled in peace time."

Don D. Ward, superintendent of the farm bureau: "The upstate farmer cannot harvest thousands of acres of wheat because of labor shortage. Men won't look at $60 a month and board."

Employment agents generally estimated that there are at least two jobs for every man in this part of the country today.

REPARATIONS TALK IS ABATED

While England Has Holiday and Until it is Seen How President Coolidge Feels About Matter.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 6.—Today was a legal holiday in England and reparations discussions by the government have been discontinued for the time being.

It is evident that the death of President Harding has influenced official opinion and the movement towards a separate reparations agreement with Germany has slackened. The Anglo-French deadlock continues and Great Britain will take no formal steps until the cabinet meeting Wednesday.

Both Premier Baldwin and Foreign Secretary Lord Curzon are in the country on brief vacations.

It is understood that Premier Baldwin is anxious to strengthen his own stand by publishing some of the reparations commission's reports as to Germany's capacity to pay.

War Secretary Lord Derby already is in France and Lord Curzon is preparing to leave for Paris soon. It is assumed both will confer with Premier Poincare and possibly President Millerand.

17 DEAD IN WEEK-END CRASHES

Movement Started in New York To Lessen Fatalities That Occur All Too Regularly.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 6.—With seventeen persons killed, and more than a score injured as a result of Sunday's motor accidents, the New York Grand Jurors Association today delegated itself to lead a movement designed to cut down the weekly loss of life.

Fourteen recommendations that a number of these plans be adopted by cities and states throughout the nation was expected to be passed.

Of the 17 killed yesterday six were in the metropolitan district. Others were grade crossings and country road accidents in the eastern section of the United States.

TO TAKE WORK OFF PRESIDENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Congress will be asked to safeguard the lives of future presidents by lightening their burdens of executive duties, which are blamed for the death of the president and the invaliding of another within the short space of four years, administration leaders declared today.

Friends of the late President Harding hope to obtain congressional authorization for the delegation of the president's minor powers to his cabinet officers. They contend the overburden of minor cares brought on the fatal collapse of President Harding and the near fatal breakdown of President Wilson.

Secretary of the Navy Denby, close personal friend of the late President Harding, announced he would lead the movement.

"Congress must do something to relieve the president of duties which make him a super clerk," Denby told International News Service. "There is no question but that these duties forced President Harding to overwork and resulted in his lamented death.

"Some of our statutes which require the president to be weighed down with clerical duties should be repealed. Congress should specifically authorize him to designate certain of his subordinates to perform the duties."

Denby explained that the president must personally sign many thousands of commissions of persons appointed to office. He must sign all bills passed by congress and hundreds of other classes of documents officially promulgated from the White House. Such routine work, it is contended, take up a large amount of the president's time and help to sap his energy. In the larger questions which are constantly pressing for the president's attention, he is always handicapped by these clerical functions, and other like matters requiring personal attention, the average work day of Warren G. Harding often was lengthened into the night.

Administration officials said today the work of the government has grown to the point that it is absolutely imperative to take some of the present duties off the president's shoulders. The government's official business is steadily increasing and it has increased tenfold in the past few years, because of the war and the reconstruction periods.

STATION HOST TO FRUIT GROWERS

Speeches, Tours of Inspection and Sports Mark Farmers' Meeting at Geneva.

The joint summer meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society and the New York State Vegetable Growers' Association on the grounds of the Experiment Station at Geneva attracted about one thousand growers and their friends. In the morning the visitors heard several prominent speakers, while in the afternoon the time was devoted to tours of inspection of the station, experiments with spraying and dusting and pruning for fruit and the variety tests of fruits and vegetables.

Charles S. Wilson of Hall, president of the Horticultural Society, presided at the morning session. Dr. R. W. Thatcher, director of the station, welcomed the growers. Mr. Wilson and R. W. McClure, president of the Vegetable Growers' Association, made brief responses.

A. R. Mann, dean of the College of Agriculture, Ithaca, related to the growers the steps leading up to the merger of the experiment station with the college, which went into effect the first of July. Plans for the development of the work of the station as presented by Dr. Thatcher some time ago are to have the fullest support of the college authorities, said Dean Mann. A special effort will be made to secure favorable action from the legislature for a new horticultural laboratory building at Geneva, he said.

The Hon. Peter G. Ten Eyck, member of congress from the Albany district and a member of the Joint Congressional Commission of Agricultural Inquiry, made a strong plea for organization among farmers for cooperation in buying and selling. T. E. Cross of Lagrangeville outlined plans for the apple show to be held in New York city in November. Over fifty growers pledged one or more barrels of apples to insure that every child visiting the show may be given at least one apple.

GOVERNOR OF KANSAS IS SERIOUSLY ILL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 6.—Governor J. M. Davis today is seriously ill with influenza, according to his physicians.

The governor had complained of not feeling well all of last week. A physician was summoned late Saturday and pronounced his illness as influenza. Throughout Sunday his temperature stood around 104. No congestion of the lungs was discovered. Only members of his family nurses and physicians are permitted to see him.

NO GIRLS IN KNICKERS IN ONE MAINE CHURCH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Augusta, Maine, Aug. 6.—Young women attired in knickers will be henceforth barred from St. Mary's Catholic Church here. The pastor of the church, Father McLaughlin, severely criticised the present day trend in feminine styles and while in doubt as to the propriety of knickers for young women in any circumstances, was emphatic in his condemnation of that garment when worn to church.

Individualize Your Bedroom Furniture

While many home owners do not know it, in the fitting of bedroom greater latitude is permissible and desirable than in any of the other rooms of the house, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. Such apartments, whether single or en suite, to be interesting as well as attractive, must be distinctive and individual. Here are a few helpful hints:

The furniture should conform in its treatment with the style of architectural details of the room.

Indication of the walls and woodwork will make the selection of the furniture easy, manufacturers of good furniture producing styles suitable for any bedroom in any home.

Suites of furniture, when available, are more preferred than single pieces, many pitfalls accompanying the latter plan unless competent advice is given in the selection.

So many and varied are the styles today that any progressive furniture dealer will gladly help the homeowner in deciding the necessary and suitable suites for the bedroom.

The room should be made appealing, comfortable, to meet the needs of the guest, if it be a guest room, as nearly as she would meet them in her own house. Otherwise it should encompass the individual needs of the member of the household who will occupy it. In fact, the bedroom is the room of rooms where the personal fancy may be given the freest rein.

Cretonnes are highly favored today as the most preferable draperies for the bedroom windows although chintzes are also in popular demand for such uses.

But above all let the room reflect individuality.

Silverware as Gifts; Makes Home Brighter

Silverware possesses an attribute as a gift which is more or less peculiar to itself. This is its "repeat value," observes a writer in the Milwaukee Sentinel. This feature makes it desirable, since silverware in the same pattern may be given on successive occasions until the recipient has been bestowed with a complete service.

All of these things account for the position in which silverware, both sterling and the best grades of plate, finds itself today. Throughout the country it has become recognized as par excellence, "the anniversary gift," and in the case of many families the furnishing of the home with silverware is being accomplished along the "anniversary gift" route. In some instances it has worked out like this:

Father and Tom and Polly all remember mother's birthday and wedding anniversary by gifts of silverware. Each in turn decide on silverware when the gift for the others is being discussed and when lasting remembrance is the main thing desired. These gifts of silverware help to make the home brighter for all of them. Each member feels that he or she has had a part in the home-making. Considered in all its phases, surely this plan makes for not only a better home but a more united family.

Velvet Ribbons Trim Many Dresses.

Velvet ribbons have taken quite a place in popular use with the coming of summer. Narrow velvet ribbons are used to outline the juncture of skirt and waist, whether that be at the waist-line, below it or, as sometimes happens, several inches above. Sometimes the narrow velvet ribbon is tied with long loops and ends in the back, sometimes at the side and sometimes directly in the front in an absurd little bowknot. This quaint little front bow is especially liked by young girls.

The Harmattan.

The name "harmattan" has been given to a dry, hot wind which periodically blows from the interior of Africa toward the Atlantic during December, January and February. It dries up green grass in an hour.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 6, 1923.

COCAINIZED JUSTICE.

Over four years ago, in February, 1919, three prominent Chinese connected with the Chinese Educational Mission in Washington, were found murdered in their home. Another Chinaman was promptly arrested, tried, and convicted of the crime. Was he punished? He was not. His hanging has just been postponed until November, 23, 1923. Numerous other postponements have preceded the most recent action of the court, and quite likely others will follow.

Wade H. Ellis, former United States Assistant Attorney General, recently returned from Europe, where he had gone to study judicial procedure in Great Britain and France. He was loud in his praise of the prompt and exact administration of justice in those countries, and equally severe in his criticism of the lax methods that prevail here. The technicalities in our law, the delay and uncertainty of its enforcement, and, in many states, the treatment of judgeships as mere political offices—all tend to arouse a contempt for the law and encourage violations.

The instance cited in the District of Columbia is by no means exceptional. At the National Capital, as in many other communities, it is the rule, rather than the exception, for years to elapse between the commission of a capital offense and the application of the penalty provided by law. The public forgets the circumstances of the crime and fails to note the connection between it and its punishment. As a crime deterrent, the law becomes practically valueless, and its only use is eventually to do away with the culprit. The theory of capital punishment is, primarily, to provide a warning for others, but that object is lost when months and even years are taken up with tedious court procedure.

OUR FOREIGN-BORN.

Judging from the noise made by our foreign born groups and their ready mouthpieces in politics before and since this country entered the World War, one might conclude that the sum total of them constituted a majority of our population. How far this is from the truth appears from a compilation made by the National City Bank of New York giving a total of not more than 14,000,000—a figure, however, which fails to represent their actual numerical power obtained through influence over their sons and daughters.

As to distribution we read that the more than a million Scandinavians are found chiefly in Minnesota, Illinois, the Dakotas, Wisconsin and Iowa, ranging from 220,000 in the first to 60,000 in the last state named. The 1,686,000 Germans are bulked in New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and the Dakotas. The 1,140,000 Poles are found chiefly in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan and New England. The 1,400,000 Russians are mostly in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and New England. The 1,610,000 Italians are chiefly found in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts. Less than a million of the fourteen millions of the foreign-born are found in the South, which, apart from its vast African negro element, still shows a larger relative percentage of the old American stock than any other part of the country.

A professional lecture tour manager complains at the growing disinclination of European lecturers to come to the United States. It is said that they decline to come because of previous criticisms by American audiences. This is interesting and shows that our pepie are awaking to the fact that for the past few years they have been made the victims of propaganda. For a while there appeared to be a procession to our shores of European statesmen, diplomats and savants, whose main theme was an exhortation to the United States to enter the league of nations or to cancel the allied debts. So regular were their visits that they appeared to be carefully timed by someone abroad who had charge of the propaganda campaign. But their talks gave patriotic Americans more annoyance than real concern. We are still free of the league and the allied debts are more likely to be paid than cancelled. Our erstwhile foreign visitors are intelligent enough to see the futility of further effort, and the lecture tour managers are finding poor business as a consequence.

In London recently a performance of one of Wagner's operas was given for the benefit of his widow who is now living in extreme poverty, not because of the after-war conditions in Germany, but because the last copyrights on Wagner's great musical compositions expired some years ago. The children of a great composer or author may go begging, but the descendants of a soap manufacturer may inherit the fruits of his labors for a thousand years.

2. What is the biggest crocodile?
3. Do alligators breathe under water?

Answers In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. What sort of bird is the fern-owl you see mentioned occasionally in English books?

One of the goatsucker group, particularly the female night jar, which is supposed to resemble an owl, and gets the "fern" part from its habit of keeping among bracken. You will find this bird in Gilbert White's Natural History of Selborne.

2. What difference is there between a fur seal and a hair seal?

They belong to different families and differ in coat. True seals, Phocidae, are all hair seals with little or no soft fur under the hairy coat. Fur seals, of the Otariidae, have the thick under fur we know as sealskin. All Otariidae or eared seals are not fur seals; but all the fur seals belong to this group. The skin of hair seals makes valuable leather when dressed.

3. Does the cicada scratch its wings together to make its zizzing noise?

No; the "singing" is done by the adult male, by means of a set of vibrating membranes which cover a pair of sound chambers toward the underside of the abdomen, one chamber on each side. These membranes are contracted and expanded rapidly and make a sound that reverberates from the sound chambers.

WORLD'S DEBT TO SCIENTISTS

All Sorts of Perils and Privations Dared to Add to the Sum of Human Knowledge.

In the early days of maritime ventures and discovery these ventures would only be undertaken under the lure of gold, the acquisition of valuable new lands and of subjects whose toil and labor, under the lash of the brutal taskmaster, would result in the accumulation of wealth for others. Adventurers there were aplenty ready to risk their lives in the most desperate undertakings. They were brave and reckless, impelled by a strange yearning which is not absent today.

In these days, however, men still venture forth in quest of discovery, daring everything, risking everything, not seeking wealth, but venturing for the pure love of adventure and to do something which no other has done before. What the world owes to these men who go forth because they cannot stay at home, whom peril beckons and toil fascinates, and who look upon death in the quest as a mere incident, if not preferable to dying quietly in bed, can never be estimated.

Men dare for science and not for gold. Men endure all sorts of hardships and perils in order to add their mite to the sum of human knowledge, hoping that some time in the future, in some way unknown to them, the world at large may benefit and humanity be blessed. If there are men who thus will dare, there are also those who will provide the funds, and for the pure love of encouraging researches that may be of value to mankind. If the explorers do not expect to obtain any special rewards, neither do those who put up the finances. It is largely a matter of service, in which each one does his part in the most fitting way and in accordance with the ability of each to do so according to the talent in his possession.—Charleston Mail.

MEETS DEATH AT WIFE'S HANDS

The Saugerties Post says:

John A. Van Etten, son of the late Winslow Van Etten, and formerly of Saugerties, was shot and killed by his wife at their home in Green Cove Springs, Florida, Tuesday, July 31. According to the information obtainable from relatives by this paper, Mrs. Van Etten had suffered abuse from her husband and he was threatening her with a club when she picked up a shot gun and fired, the shot killing Van Etten. The body will be brought here for burial.

It is claimed that Mrs. Van Etten had been treated cruelly for a long time and that she could not stand it any longer. She was taken into custody after the shooting and her relatives have gone to her assistance.

Mrs. Van Etten is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Felter of Barclay Heights, her maiden name being Emma. Before removing to Florida, where they conducted a chicken farm, Mr. Van Etten was a member of the New York city police force. He is survived by his mother, two sisters and four brothers.

WHY HARDENED COPS TURN RED

At Least One Could Not Say This Was a Job Suitable for a Preacher's Son.

TAKE-OFF ON POLICE

Chicago.—After numerous attempts had been made to serve upon Miss Pearl Kircher, a warrant accusing her of passing a bad check for $106.40, the warrant was handed to Messrs. William Gorman and Edward McGuire, detectives of the police bureau.

"And don't come back with it," said the lieutenant, as he instructed the detectives concerning their mission. "Bring the prisoner. Use your heads. We've had about a thousand policemen trying to serve this warrant until it's about worn out. She's a smart woman. Bring her in."

They Use Their Heads.

And so when McGuire had pushed the bell button in the Sheridan road apartment building and a sweet voice had said, "Who is it?" McGuire said:

"Parcel post," and slyly nudged Gorman in the ribs in token of his vast subtlety.

The buzzer sounded. The detectives went up two steps at a time, and when the door of Miss Kircher's apartment opened McGuire's foot strategically held it there.

"Parcel po—," began Miss Kircher, in a tone that implied a studied coolness.

"Listen, lady," said McGuire, "we hated to do it; but we thought you wouldn't like a rumpus so we—well, we're police officers and we have a warrant for you."

Almost immediately the air was full of woman's rights—and lefts. Meanwhile one of the detectives entered.

"Now, lady," pursued McGuire, "we thought you'd like to fix this thing up. So, come on, and we'll be going."

"You'll take me nowhere," said Miss Kercher; "just watch and see if you do."

And without more ado she plopped down on a divan. Off came a dainty

"Please, Lady," Implored Gorman.

slipper. It caught McGuire on the ear. Off came another slipper. It fetched Gorman on the jaw. Off came her diaphanous housegown—

They Really Blush.

McGuire's face was turning a deep scarlet. So was Gorman's.

"Now, lady," said McGuire, and he lifted a deprecating digit. No use. Off came the lady's stockings.

"Please, lady," implored Gorman. Her answer was a silken something-or-other.

"Lady," supplemented McGuire, "we're men of family and this is no way to—"

A final fling of filmy things. Well, sir, there she was!

"Now," said she, "go ahead with your arresting."

Said McGuire: "Gorman, phone for the wagon—and a blanket."

"And a barrel," said Gorman. The wagon came. Came also E. Kahn, the landlord.

"Oh, goodness," said E. Kahn, "she wouldn't pass a bum check. Why, she's got an income of $4,000 a month. I'll drive you all down in her limousine."

At which the lady put on her clothes. And when she had signed her bonds in the bureau she turned to McGuire and Gorman and said:

"Well, you wanted excitement, and you got it."

3 YEARS WITHOUT WORD WINS WIFE A DIVORCE

Sat Opposite Husband Every Day at Luncheon, She Says—Cruel, Says Court.

London.—A wife who said that her husband had not spoken to her for three years and two months, although they sat opposite each other every day at their midday meal, was granted a decree nisi of divorce in the courts last week, the judge holding that this unusual conduct amounted to cruelty and desertion.

The wife, Mrs. Ada Diver, said she was married in 1890 and that she and her husband were quite happy until 1920, when she had a nervous breakdown and went to stay at her mother's house for a few weeks.

For twelve months after that they lived in the same house and had one meal, luncheon, together each day, but did not speak.

She left him, but returned in a short time, and though her husband then slept elsewhere, he still came home for luncheon and continued doing so until last week, though refusing to speak a word to his wife, the silence being maintained altogether for more than three years, she said.

Runaway Tricks Police; Thieves Get Diamonds

New York.—After frightening a horse to divert attention from themselves, two bandits recently smashed a window in the Rundback Jewelry store, 2232 Third avenue, fired a bullet at one of the proprietors and fled in a taxicab with a tray of diamonds valued at $40,000. The robbery happened shortly after 9 o'clock, when the streets of Harlem were filled with Saturday night shoppers.

The store has been robbed twice in the last year and, although the loss in each instance was not great, Patrolman John Lloyd of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street station has since kept a careful watch on the place. Just before the robbery, a horse hired from a livery stable at 345 East One Hundred and Third street bolted, and the policeman ran after it. A moment later came the crash of glass as the store window was smashed.

Persons who happened to be in the block between One Hundred and Twenty-first and One Hundred and Twenty-second street said they saw two young men leap from a taxicab at the curb just as the policeman raced after the horse.

One of them hurled a brick through the show window and the other quickly reached through, taking out one of several trays of gems. John Rundback, who owns the store with his mother and his brother, Edward, rushed to the doorway and one of the bandits fired at him, but the bullet went wild.

The two robbers then jumped into the taxicab, which was a few feet away, and drove out of sight before Policeman Lloyd had finished calming the frightened horse two blocks distant. No one could be found who could account for the animal running away, but the police believe some one in league with the bandits was responsible.

Disease Makes Her Talk Almost Continuously

Parsons, Kan.—Talking almost continuously since last Thanksgiving, and still going strong, is the unique record of Miss Mildred Spencer, twenty-year-old schoolma'am of this city.

Miss Spencer, while visiting her home in Baldwin for the Thanksgiving vacation, prattled incessantly of "cabbages and kings," but the family thought she was only overjoyed to return. But when she awakened her mother night after night to continue the talk-fest, the family became alarmed.

Several weeks ago the patient was brought to a local sanitarium, where physicians diagnosed her malady as "talking sickness."

Miss Spencer is widely read and has a wealth of material upon which to enlighten attendants. She rarely repeats herself.

A cure within a few weeks is promised by physicians.

Child Found Lunching on a Stick of Dynamite

Mrs. C. E. Brewer of Kansas City, Kan., was amazed to find her three-year-old daughter seated on the step of a rear porch complacently chewing on a half-pound stick of dynamite. She separated the baby from its "lunch" and called the police.

Other children, who had been playing in the yard, explained that the baby found the explosive in a bunch of wire. No ill effects followed the dynamite menu.

Putting It Up to Aunt.

Aunt Mildred, of marriageable age but unattached, took her nephew, Robert, downtown on a shopping expedition.

They stopped at a large clothing store and, while Aunt Mildred was interested in a contemplated purchase, one of the young men clerks undertook to entertain the small boy by playing tag with him.

Finally tiring of the game, Robert ran up to Aunt Mildred and breathlessly called out: "Now you chase the man, Aunt Mildred."—Chicago Tribune.

Knew What Was Coming.

The spendthrift son was leading hopefully up to his usual request.

"Yes, you know, father," he observed, "I'm getting along jolly well lately. Why, I was even introduced to Jorrington the other day. He's the leading man in the whole of our business. I—"

"And have you paid him back yet?" inquired his impossible parent.—Stray Stories.

THE WEEK'S WORK ON STATE ROADS

The following bulletin issued by Frederick Stuart Greene, state commissioner of highways, shows progress of new construction and reconstruction of state highways for the week ending August 2:

Total number of contracts under way	204
Total number of men employed by contractors	6,979
Total square yards of pavement completed during week	174,398
Total square yards of pavement completed this season	1,974,363
Total maintenance force employed by the state	5,200

As the state is building highway pavements of different widths, we shall hereafter report the number of square yards of pavement completed instead of the miles of pavement laid. It is evident that as a mile of pavement 16 feet wide requires far less work than a mile of pavement 20 feet wide, reports on a square yard basis must give a truer record of the amount of work done.

Oft In The Still Night.

Oft in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chains have bound me,
I strike, I start!
But, soon, a smart
Most surely doth betoken
My life blood drawn
And till the dawn
My well-earned rest is broken.
Thus in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chains have bound me,
I sadly ponder on my plight
While skeeters fuss around me!

Italian Had "Kick" Coming.

The Italian workman in the backwoods of America was warned to look out for rattlesnakes. He was assured, however, that a snake would never strike until after sounding the rattles.

One day, while seated on a log eating his lunch, the Italian saw a rattlesnake coiled ready to strike. He lifted his leg carefully, with the intention of darting away the moment the rattles should sound their warning. But just as his feet cleared the top of the log, the snake struck out and its fangs were buried in the wood only a fraction of an inch below the Italian's trousers.

The frightened man fled madly, but he took breath to shriek over his shoulder:

"Idiot. Why you no ringa da bell?"

Obtains Picture of Hobson.

A lifelike portrait of the quaint Cambridge carrier, Thomas Hobson, to whom we owe indirectly the phrase "Hobson's choice," has recently been acquired by the British National Portrait gallery. On the canvas appears the date 1629—two years before the death, at the age of eighty-four, of Hobson. The painter is unknown, but he evidently belonged to a school with greater regard for fidelity than technique. How the famous saying arose is known. Hobson's stables were well stocked, but his horses had to be taken by customers in strict rotation. "This or none," was Hobson's rule. The portrait shows a strong face with aquiline nose, firm mouth, and kindly but courageous eyes.

Device for Cutting Twine.

A novel device for cutting the twine with which bundles of grain are bound is intended to be worn on the worker's left hand. It consists of a leather sheath to which is attached a copper support for a detachable and highly tempered steel blade having a saw-tooth edge so shaped that the twine is cut with little effort.

COOLIDGE CAN'T EVADE POLITICS

Many National Leaders Secure Conferences and Already World Court, Farm Problem and Coal Situation Demand Attention.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Despite the announcement of President Coolidge that matters of administration policy would not be decided until after the late President Harding's funeral, the nation's new chief executive today was confronted with a series of conferences involving matters of political consequence.

With cabinet members and administration senators due to visit him hour after hour during the day the new president also had a conference arranged with John Adams, chairman of the Republican national committee. At their conference, it was understood, matters of policy, both foreign and domestic, as well as possibility of executive appointments, were to be discussed. The problems facing the new president are known to involve political decisions despite his stated aversion to this practice until after the state funeral Wednesday.

That it has been impossible for President Coolidge to evade politics even for the three days he has occupied the "White House" was evidenced yesterday in the visit of Senator Frank B. Brandegee, Republican of Connecticut, an irreconcilable leader. Brandegee was closeted with the president for two hours. Other callers were Secretary of State Hughes, William M. Butler, Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts and James B. Reynolds, who managed the Coolidge campaign in 1920.

Four problems of national significance, each involving a question of administration policy, now confront the new president. These are:

1—A definite understanding of the new presidents' position on the world court, in which President Harding sought to have this nation participate.

2—The question of political appointments. An impression is growing rapidly that there will be many changes in the administration.

3—The agricultural crisis. Suggestion is being made in many quarters that an extra session of congress be called to deal with this annoying problem.

4—Possibility of another coal strike.

A stand on the world court undoubtedly will afford President Coolidge his greatest worry. He has indicated that the policies of the Harding administration will be continued. He is understood to be averse to calling an extra session of congress to consider farm aid or anything else.

In the coal situation President Coolidge already has placed himself on record as favoring a resumption of the Atlantic City negotiations.

NO LET UP YET IN INDUSTRIES

Employment Conditions Better Than Usual and Building Goes On—Men Busy in Nearly All Lines.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 6.—No indications of serious dullness in industry have yet appeared in New York state. Employment in the manufacturing industries receded less than one per cent in July. This is very satisfactory because employment is much higher than in 1922 and it is usual for manufacturing activity to recede somewhat in June and July. This statement was issued today by Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag of the State Department of Labor.

About half of the industry divisions in the state added to their forces this month and half of them let some of their workers go. Most of the decreases were due to the usual summer slackening, as in the glass and the silverware and jewelry industries. An important decrease in the cotton and cotton finishing industries was due to dull business conditions. This industry has been unusually active, however, and has been operating night shifts until this month. Occasional references to dull business conditions were found in other lines. The important automobile industry showed a net reduction this month, although many of the plants added more employes. The steel mills were less active, but report good business in prospect for the third quarter.

Conditions in the manufacturing industries of New York state appear to be on a very good basis. The possibility of a decline in building has not yet reached serious proportions, partly, it may be, because of the downward tendency in the price of materials.

GOLF CREDITED TO SCOTLAND

If Not Original There, the Game Was Brought to a High Degree of Development.

A sport similar to modern golf originated with the Dutch, but the game generally is identified with Scotland. In fact, credit for developing golf to its present standards and handing down its traditions belongs to the "land of the warring clans," where as early as 1457 the local parliament inveighed against its abuse. The word derived from the German kolbe, in Dutch kolf, signifies a club. Kolf is an olden pastime in Holland and Belgium, where is usually is played on the ice.

In Scotland golf formerly was solely a "gentleman's game," reserved to few men, whose wealth made great courses possible. These sportsmen observed to the highest degree the ethical and social requirements so dear to the Scotch golfer, and on such a plane the game reached America in 1888. For many years only men of leisure played. The playing of women did not follow for a dozen years. Gradually in city parks golf courses were laid out, and the response of the general public was instantaneous. By 1910 many women were playing, their number constantly increasing until on some courses the sexes are equally represented.

Below - Warden P. C. Thomas & Gov. Donahey.

A sensation has been caused in Ohio and in Canada by the vacation plans of Governor Victor Donahey, of Ohio, and Warden Preston C. Thomas, of the Ohio State Penitentiary, at Columbus. With their families, the governor and the warden were getting all settled for a long stay at the Gull river, near Cobocconk, Ontario, Canada, when it was discovered that two of their servants were men who had been sentenced to life imprisonment in Ohio for murder. The Canadian officials announced the prisoners would be deported, and Donahey, who claimed his enemies were trying to make political capital of the event, declared he would leave Canada if the officials acted. The lifers are Earl Jennings, who killed a man in a poolroom fight, and Constantina Zipriani, who killed a street car conductor.

Claude's Waves.

His seas are the most beautiful in old art. For he studied tame waves, as he did tame skies, with great sincerity, and some affection; and modeled them with more care, not only than any other landscape painter of his day, but even than any of the great men; for they, seeing the perfect painting of sea to be impossible, gave up the attempt, and treated it conventionally. But Claude took so much pains about this, feeling it was one of his fortes, that I supose no one can model a small wave better than he.—Ruskin.

Safe-Because Easy to Handle

THERE are very definite reasons why owners find the Gardner Four an amazingly easy car to handle, at low speed in heavy traffic or at a mile a minute on the road.

For one thing, it has a 10-inch clutch, operating with far less foot pressure than is required in most cars at any price.

Then, too, tire equipment is generous; 32" x 4" Cords and an 18-inch steering wheel makes steering easy.

Light brake action and large brake area (200 square inches) stop a Gardner quickly - in 20 yards at 30 miles an hour—without locking or binding

You will appreciate the safety afforded by such features when you first take the wheel of the Guaranteed Car.

We are what we eat!

It's a startling fact, yet a simple truth.

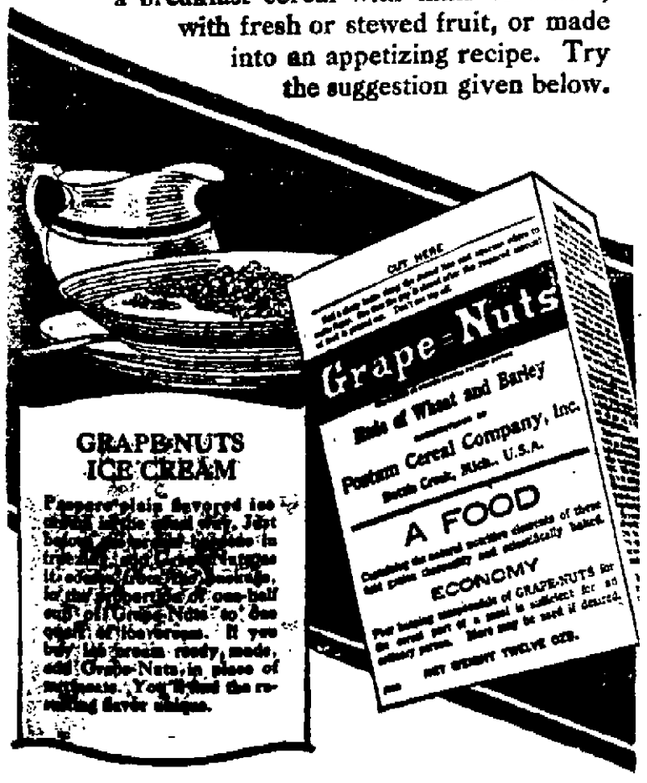
This is the reason every one should know that his food is really nourishing—not merely filling.

Grape-Nuts—made from wheat and barley—is one of the few cereal foods that includes the vital mineral salts so necessary for supplying proper nourishment for nerve and bone structure.

In Grape-Nuts, too, is retained the important vitamin-B of the wheat.

No food has greater influence in strengthening the body of a growing child than Grape-Nuts. And remember, children need the very best there is in the way of nourishment.

Grape-Nuts is just as delicious as it is healthful, whether served right from the package as a breakfast cereal with milk or cream, with fresh or stewed fruit, or made into an appetizing recipe. Try the suggestion given below.



GRAPE-NUTS ICE CREAM

Prepare plain flavored ice cream while cream is cold. Just before cream is ready to freeze add to each quart of cream mixture 1½ cups of Grape-Nuts. If you buy ice cream ready made, add Grape-Nuts in place of nuts. You'll find the resulting flavor unique.

Making Crystal Thread.

The making of the famous quartz fibers invented some years ago is a curious process. Quartz crystals, which many a country resident living in regions where they are found has fancied to be diamonds, are melted with a blowpipe and drawn out into a thread with the aid of an arrow. One crystal is fastened to the arrow while another is fixed in the flame. The two are fused together, and at the proper moment the arrow is released and darts away into a fixed target, drawing the melted quartz into a thread the length and size of which can be easily regulated. These threads are very tough, strong and elastic. They can be made so fine as to be almost invisible. They are used in instruments where a completely elastic filament is required.

Production of Coal.

Wood is today being deposited in swamps over most of the earth. The necessary elements required to make coal are an abundance of wood to be submerged, a marsh full of water for the wood to lie in, and a supply of mud to cover the wood occasionally to seal it up from decay. Wherever these conditions are fulfilled wood is preserved. The first form it takes is peat. Peat differs from wood in that it is slightly oxidized, but otherwise its structure is unchanged. The second stage of coal is lignite. Here the woody structure is still discernible, but the hardening process has gone further. The third stage is bituminous coal. This mineral is black instead of brown, and woody fossils in it are somewhat rare.

The Purchaser's Duty.

When a purchaser of land knows of a defect in the title of the land purchased and knows the seller to be ignorant of the defect it is his duty to pass this information on to the seller, according to a recent court decision. "Where the seller, if he had such information, could perfect the title within the time required by his contract, and where the purchaser, having such knowledge, does not inform the seller of the defect, the latter cannot later claim a decision of the contract without first giving the owner notice and a reasonable opportunity to clear the title," the court declared.

19 ARRESTS HERE OVER WEEK-END

Sam Buchanan Drunk a Little Too Much Wine, and Wife Wants Him to Take Pledge—Drunks and Auto Violators Caught in Police Net.

With nineteen arrests in Kingston over the week end for various offenses, Judge Schirick held a busy session in police court this morning to dispose of the cases brought to his attention.

Sam Buchanan of North street, who is employed on Dwyer's boatyard, was the first man to face the judge. He had been arrested by Officer Martin on a charge of disorderly conduct. Mrs. Buchanan was present in court to tell how it all happened. The Buchanans have been married about 38 years and have four children living.

Buchanan when asked how it happened said that he "had a little wine in him."

"He was under the influence, Judge," interrupted Mrs. Buchanan, "and he started to fire at me because I happened to be out buying a quart of cream when he came home."

"Did you call up the police?" asked Judge Schirick.

"No sir," it was my daughter who called the officer when her father started to choke her. The only thing I wish, Your Honor, is to have him take the pledge and leave the drink alone and then we will be a happy family."

In reply to further questions, Mrs. Buchanan said that her husband was a good provider and that if he would only stop drinking there would be no trouble.

Judge Schirick imposed a fine of $25 and suspended payment pending Mr. Buchanan's behavior.

A One-Armed Negro.

James B. Brown, a one-armed negro, pleaded not guilty to disorderly conduct in entering the home of Mr. Downey, another negro, and refusing to leave when requested. The hearing was held open until Wednesday and bail fixed at $50.

Some Traffic Violators.

Sam Welsberg of this city was arrested this morning for driving to the left of the police standard at Broadway and Railroad avenue. The hearing was adjourned to Wednesday.

Henry Diehl of Brooklyn was fined $10 for speeding.

M. Kirshenblum of this city was fined $2 for parking in front of a fire hydrant.

Benjamin Kirshman of Brooklyn, Al Spera of Brooklyn, William L. Ranan of Bozota, Isidor Goldsrein of New York, Isidor Solomon of New York, Alfred A. Flower of New York, all forfeited $15 cash bail for failure to appear to answer to a charge of speeding.

Norman Rabiner of Brooklyn had his hearing adjourned to August 9, on a charge of speeding.

Carl Smith of Lake Katrine, arrested for cutting a traffic standard at Washington avenue and North Front street, forfeited $5 cash bail by failure to appear.

Ephraim Schabot of First avenue, riding a motorcycle, cut the traffic standard at North Front and Wall streets. He was fined $5.

An Auto Collision.

George Zimmerman of 37 Lucas avenue was arrested by Frank Philips of 42 Henry street Sunday evening on a charge of reckless driving as the result of an auto collision at Wall and Pearl streets, in which three cars came together.

This morning Philips informed Judge Schirick that he did not care to lodge a charge against Zimmerman and the case was dismissed.

It is understood that Zimmerman agreed to stand for the damage to the Phillips car.

Other Cases.

Anthony Washburn, a negro, arrested for loitering on Downs street, explained he had been working in Kingston but three days and was searching for a number. He was given twenty minutes to return to his job.

John Louis Smith, of the town of Rochester, was found helplessly drunk downtown. As this was the first time he had ever been arrested the payment of a $5 fine was suspended.

Max M. Block of Jamaica, arrested for speeding this morning, contributed $10 to the city treasury.

Same Old Virgil.

Virgil Sampson, a negro, who was only recently released after serving thirty days in the county jail on a charge of public intoxication, was found helplessly drunk on Lucas avenue.

Virgil said he had not the least idea where he was at the time he was arrested, and when he was informed it was on Lucas avenue was greatly surprised.

Judge Schirick imposed another 30 days' sentence, but suspended it providing Virgil agreed to keep away from the city for one year.

"If you are picked up and appear before me before the year elapses," explained Judge Schirick "I will send you to Albany."

"Good land, I don't want to go there," explained Virgil fervently.

"Then see that you keep your bargain with me," retorted Judge Schirick.

A number of people were on the bank but were unable to swim and consequently could not go to the young man's assistance. Bernard Roach of this city who was driving home from his work on the state road job at Malden heard the cry for assistance and, hastily disrobing, plunged in. After diving several times he located the body caught in the weeds on the bottom of the creek and brought it to the surface. All means known were used to revive the young man but Cassa had been under too long. Dr. C. L. Gannon of Glasco was sent for but his efforts were of no avail. Coroner Lasher of Saugerties was notified and took charge of the body. The body was prepared by Lasher & Burhans, Saugerties undertakers, for shipment to the young man's home in Brooklyn. BISHOP FINED AFTER COLLISION

$10 For Reckless Driving—Chauffeur Taken to Hospital With Broken Head.

Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock two cars, a Roamer and a Buick car, came together on the slight grade just north of the Shokan store and both of the cars were wrecked, the Buick suffering the most serious damage. C. B. S. Bishop, driver of the Buick car, was placed under arrest charged with violating section 14 of the Highway law, the section in regard to reckless driving. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lincoln Smith of Shokan and on entering a plea of guilty was fined $10.

The Buick car of Bishop was proceeding north at a good clip and the Roamer owned and driven by Charles Zaren of New York city was proceeding south. At the point of the accident there is a short grade. Bishop, who gave his address at 574 Broadway, this city, was accompanied by Clifford Sears of 9 Green street. In the Roamer were Charles Zazen, driver, Abraham Friedman and two young women. Friedman received a slight fracture of the skull and cuts and bruises. He was taken to the Kingston City Hospital by two young men who came along in a car immediately after the accident. His injuries were considered not serious.

Sheriff Kolts and Undersheriff Haulenbeek went to the scene and placed Bishop under arrest. The Saturday afternoon traffic which was heavy soon made traffic direction necessary and the sheriff was kept busy keeping traffic moving until the wreckage was cleared up.

Bishop said that as he approached the grade there was a Ford in front of him which stopped and he swerved to pass it, not seeing the Roamer. The Buick car was badly wrecked and the front end of the Roamer was badly damaged.

Sterne's Great Sentence.

Eight words entitle Laurence Sterne to be ranked with the famous men of all time. These words are believed by almost everyone to be somewhere in the Bible. No other writer in English has penned a sentence that has been quoted by thousands of people in the certain belief that they were repeating a Biblical statement. But you can search the Old and New Testament and nowhere in them will you find that "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." And you will find the sentence in Sterne's "Sentimental Journey."

First Electric Fire Alarm System.

The first electric fire alarm system for cities was patented in England by Alexander Bain in 1843. It was very imperfect, and more elaborate systems were patented by Dumont and Hunter in 1851 and 1852. Hunter's seems to have been somewhat similar to that introduced into Boston by Farmer and Channing between 1853 and 1857, which was patented in the latter year and put in operation in several American cities. Since then it has been greatly improved and is now almost universally used in cities and towns of considerable size.

Rich Reef!

A company promoter arrived from South Africa to float a gold mine in this country. He brought with him a large piece of quartz dotted all over with nice little bits of gold. This proved so attractive that the necessary capital was quickly subscribed. At the first meeting of directors, in order to inspire confidence and boost the shares, he dispatched a cable to his friends in South Africa saying, "Company successfully floated. Start crushing at once." The reply came back: "Congratulations. Will start crushing when you return the reef."

Consistent to the End.

Her husband was somewhat alarmed and went to call on the old family doctor. Kindly, but firmly, the good old practitioner explained that the society whirl was playing havoc with her health. He pointed out that incessant card playing for high stakes is even harder on the nerves than actual toil. He wouldn't answer for results unless she promised to let up. He told her that she must rest and that she must have two nurses. "Make it three, doctor," said the nonchalant patient. "Then we can play bridge."

Beauty a "Fatal Gift."

Beauty is at a discount in British Guiana. So much is it despised that if a young girl shows any promise of looks she is relieved of such an unfortunate acquisition by a hideous scar. This is branded upon her mouth and cheeks by some male relative. They are not content with changing her expression like the poor unfortunate boy in Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs." They go further. Into this wound a herb is rubbed. When the scar is healed it has a bluish tint.

She Was Too Greedy.

My first love affair occurred when I was in the third grade. My parents had just presented me with a box of paints and my sweetheart borrowed them. She used them until they were all gone, then she apparently lost all interest in me. This was the end of my first love affair.—Chicago Journal.

Roosevelt on Training Children.

No parents should simply be gentle and merciful to their children. Justice must be meted out first, if the children are at fault; mercy must come afterwards.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Timely Definition.

"An optimist," observes an exchange, "is one who believes the decorators when they tell him they'll paint and repaper his house in two weeks."—Boston Evening Transcript.

MARION AWAITS ON MRS. HARDING

Before Making Definite Funeral Plans—Ostentatious Display to be Avoided But Immense Crowd is Sure to be Present Friday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Marion, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Folks here are just marking time till they bring "W. G." back home again. Down at Washington he may have been "Mr." Harding, but in this quiet Ohio city he was just plain "W. G."

Last Fourth of July, when he came back for a visit, he was just the same as always—no pretense, no hi-faluting ideas, just plain American.

They'll tell you how he walked across the street to shake hands with Bod Storaci, who runs a peanut roaster. Bob tells it.

"Yes, sir," he says, "I saw him coming down the street and I was kinda afraid to look at him. And what do you think? He came right over and shook me by the hand. Yes, sir, I was pretty much excited. He was a grand man, I tell you."

It's almost impossible to find a person who didn't know President Harding personally, to whom he wasn't "W. G.," and they all recall some little incident illustrative of the character of the man who today is mourned by the world.

As Warren G. Harding was a man, so Marion, Ohio., is a city. It's a sincere, homey place. Folks go ahead here when they're sure they're right—not before. It's a friendly place and a neighborly place, too. About the only time they use the prefix "Mister" is when they introduce a stranger or write a letter. It's a "first name city." If you meet some on the street, it's "Hello, Ben" and "How are you, Sam?"

Marion takes things calmly. It does not get excited quickly. That's why, perhaps, that when the death of its first citizen came with stunning abruptness Marion just went ahead with its daily tasks. The attitude of the city differs not a great deal from that of Mrs. Harding herself. To the casual observer it took the shock well, but underneath there is deep, sincere sorrow. Everybody liked "W. G.," and in the attitude the city has taken is found the greatest tribute that can be paid to the man who is dead. Ostentatious display would detract from that sincere tribute. So, when he comes back, there will be simple services. The fact that "W. G." was president cannot be helped.

It was decided that the line of the funeral cortege will be from the depot to the home of Dr. George T. Harding, aged father of the late chief executive and from there to the cemetery, where "W. G." will be buried in the family plot beside his mother.

In addition late yesterday afternoon 2,000 guardsmen were ordered mobilized. Two of the companies are from Marion, the rest coming from other cities in the state.

Already a guard of honor has been placed at the cemetery. It will remain until after the burial Friday.

President Harding was a trustee of Trinity Baptist Church. Five years ago, Dr. Walter King was the pastor. He was called to Columbus. Mr. Harding went to the presidency. Sunday Dr. King came back to the church to preach a sermon. When he mounted the pulpit it was several seconds before he could trust himself to speak.

Just a few feet in front of him was an empty pew. Across the back was a draping of crepe. Some flowers were on the seat.

There was a plaque at the end of the Harding pew. On it is inscribed "Warren G. Harding, president of the United States of America, 1921." Time has written the other date prematurely.

Th funeral train, due to arrive here at 8:30 a. m., Thursday, will be met at the station by thousands of faithful friends of the dead president. Then, if Mrs. Harding is willing, the body will be taken to the court house. After lying in state there until late afternoon it will be transported to the home of the president's father and placed in the simple, old-fashioned front room—the same room from which his mother and sister were buried.

Absolute privacy for the family from Thursday afternoon until Friday morning has been assured by Colonel Lahn. Whether funeral services will be held at the home or at the cemetery will not be known definitely until Dr. Sawyer returns from his conference with Mrs. Harding today.

Nation's Stability Assured.

"A cheerful heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit dryeth the bones," said Solomon. Not until Americans lose their ability to laugh in the face of disaster and become the victims of the broken spirit that dryeth the bones need we entertain fears for the future of this republic.—Washington Post.

Y.M.C.A. GREENKILL CAMP ROBBED

$427 in Money and Other Articles Taken From Camp Safe, Burglar Using Oil Where it Would Prevent Squeaks.

Supervisor Ackerly, of the Greenkill Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp, located on the Bluewater Lake near Whiteport, reported to the Sheriff this morning that some time between 12 o'clock Saturday night and 6 o'clock Sunday morning the "strong box" at the camp had been robbed. The thieves, who evidently knew the location of the treasure box, took $427 in money and some jewelry. A gold watch and cuff links were among the missing.

Usually there is practically no cash kept in the camp, but on account of the need of funds for the boys who were to go on a hike today a considerable sum of money was drawn from the bank Saturday and placed in the camp safe. In breaking open the place the thieves used a brace and bit to bore out a circle of wood around the pad lock. Oil was used on the brace and bit to prevent noise and the hinges were liberally oiled to prevent making a noise when the door was opened.

The job is thought to be the work of some local person who knew the camp. The brace and bit was found on the road to Whiteport and may be a valuable clew to the guilty party. A box containing envelopes was also taken and after breaking it open and learning the contents this, too, was abandoned on the Whiteport road.

The case is being investigated by the authorities.

Arthur Ellsworth of this city was drowned in the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie on Sunday. This morning Undertaker Kukuk was called to that city for the body. According to Poughkeepsie dispatches Ellsworth was in swimming with John Curran who boarded with him. The body was recovered about two hours later.

John Curran of No. 3 Spring street, this city was questioned by many this morning as to how the accident happened. He said he was not the man with Ellsworth when the latter drowned.

YOUTH DROWNS AT EDDYVILLE

Boarder Slips Off Side of Boat—Search Being Made For Body.

George Malinow, aged 17, of Brooklyn, who was spending his vacation at George Riggins's summer hoarding house at Eddyville, with friends, was drowned this morning about 10 o'clock in the Rondout creek. He was in swimming with other boys in the creek near the Eddyville bridge and a story is that he slipped off the side of a boat on which he was clinging and went down and was drowned. His body had not been recovered up to about 1 o'clock today and it is requested that anyone noticing a body along the creek notify Mr. Riggins at Eddyville, his telephone call being 8-F-14.

"War Paint" Flower.

One of our earliest flowers is the bloodroot or Indian paint. Break the stem of flower or root and you discover the reason for the name, for there immediately flows from the wound a reddish fluid which somewhat resembles blood and will stain, says Nature Magazine. It is said that this juice was once used by the Indians as a war paint and, mixed with sugar, by mothers as a cure for their children's coughs and colds.

LEONARD MEETS DUNDEE SEPT. 5

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 6.—Benny Leonard and Johnny Dundee, respective world's champions of the lightweight and featherweight divisions, are to meet to a decision in a 15 round bout at the Yankee Stadium on the night of September 5. The bout will be for the lightweight title Leonard having agreed to make 135 pounds at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the bout. It is also said he has agreed to weigh in publicly, something he failed to do for his two meetings with Lew Tendler.

Dundee can make the lightweight limit without trouble but will be required to weigh in.

The match will be the ninth meeting between the pair, Dundee having held his own in most of them despite the disparity in weight.

TANNERSVILLE WINS IN TENTH

Over Colonials of This City at Tannersville on Saturday—Forsythe in Box for Locals and Pitches Good Ball But Errors Spell Defeat—Deegan Knocks a Triple With Three On—Score 6-5.

Up to the seventh inning Dolan, Lackey & Co., had the Colonials of Kingston blanked on Saturday at Tannersville while they had four runs to their credit. After the Colonials had been to bat in the seventh inning the score stood 5-4 in favor of the Colonials. After Tannersville had been to bat in the eighth inning the score stood 5 all. After Tannersville had been to bat in the tenth inning the score stood 6-5. And furthermore there it stood and will stand.

Boyle, who was in the box for the Tannersville outfit, had the Colonials eating out of his hands until the seventh inning. Then Dahn went to first on four balls. Schwab singled to center field. Coyle hit a fly to Raskin and Cragin, who had taken the place of Robins behind the bat in the fifth inning, struck out. Russell singled, which loaded the bases. Deegan hit a triple to left field, scoring the three men on the bags. McCue walked, and then after Boyle had thrown three bad ones over to Fogarty he was relieved by Deetjen. The new pitcher sent Fogarty to first. Dahn was given another walk and Deegan was forced in home. Schwab ended the inning by flying out to Dugan.

Previous to this Tannersville had scored one run in the fourth inning and three in the fifth. In their half of the eighth they scored another run, tieing the score at 5 all. In the tenth inning there were two men out and a Tannersville player on second. A Tannersville batter hit over short. Swat Russell knocked the ball down, recovered it, saw that it was too late to get the man at first and then threw to home in an attempt to get the runner at the rubber. However, the Tannersville runner was called safe by Umpire Fitzsimmons and as a result Tannersville took the sixth game of the series between the two clubs. The series now stands at 3 all.

Poor Fielding.

The Colonials had rather a poor day in the field which was mainly responsible for their defeat. Five errors were made by the local players and they came at the wrong time. Wild throws were responsible for three Tannersville runs.

Forsythe Pitches Well.

Forsythe pitched a good game for the local team. He allowed the Tannersville club just eight hits, walked three men, and struck four out.

The Tannersville pitchers allowed the Colonials nine hits, walked six men and struck out five.

The score:

TAGGING THE SEMI-PRO BASES

At Schenectady—The Schenectady Knights of Columbus were defeated Sunday at Columbus Park, Schenectady, by "Chappie" Johnson's Philadelphia Royal Stars, 2 to 0. The home club was helpless before Cooper, who was recently signed up by the Stars. Smith hurled a good game for the Kaysees but was given miserable support, his teammates making four errors behind him. The Stars scored their runs in the fifth and eighth.

At Philmont—A walk, followed by a hit and an error gave "Chappie" Johnson's Philadelphia Royal Stars the winning run over the Philmont Specials at Philmont on Saturday night, the score being 1 to 0. The game developed into a pitcher's battle between Rossback for the home club, and Crowder for the Stars. Rossback had ten strike outs to his credit, three of which were in the last inning. Prior starred at bat for Philmont with three hits out of four times up.

At East Orange—The Doherty Silk Sox swamped the East Orange team on Saturday winning by a 14-1 score. Gaston and Dede were batteries for the East Orange Club.

At Clifton, N. J.—The Royal Giants defeated the Doherty Silk Sox at Doherty Oval on Sunday by a 7-3 score. The Royal Giants scored two runs in the second inning and five in the fifth. Talcott and Eisel did the hurling for the New Jersey team.

At Poughkeepsie — The Poughkeepsie Red Sox made it three straight over the Tannersville outfit on Sunday by taking both games of a double header at the Red Sox park in Poughkeepsie. The first game went to the Red Sox by a 5-2 score. Suhre was in the box for the Tannersville club in the first game and Wolfe did the hurling for the Poughkeepsie club.

The second game went to the Red Sox by a 3-2 score. Dietzen and Suhre did the pitching for Tannersville and Sid Ross hurled them over against his former teammates for the Poughkeepsie club. Both teams managed to get nine hits in the second game.

At Stamford, Conn.—With Mickey Welch in the box the Chevrolet Club of Tarrytown, defeated the Yale & Towne Club of Stamford on Sunday by a 5-1 score.

SIR BILL IS BLANKED AGAIN

By Bud Culloton and the Colonials—Bud Pitches Excellent Ball Against Schatz Club for Second Time in Four Days—Kahn Pitches for Schatz Club and Is Found for Ten Hits—Score 2-0.

Wednesday Sir Bill's team went back to Poughkeepsie fasting the sting of defeat and rather downhearted. However after being duly comforted by some of their staunch supporters they decided to brave the wilds of Kingston once more on Sunday.

Among the things which J. Williams' cohorts threatened to do on Sunday was to drive Bud Culloton out of the box. Needless to say they did not succeed to any marked degree. Bud Culloton was still in the box after the third out had been made in the first half of the ninth inning and furthermore the only thing which could be found on the ledger along side of Sir Bill's name was a 0. Also after a great deal of laborious labor it was discovered that the number of Schatz hits reached the grand total of five. There is practically no doubt but that Sir Bill and his followers needed some more soothing syrup before they retired for the night.

The way things started off in the first inning it looked as though the fans would not see much of a ball game and that the local players would earn their victory very easily. Umpire Fitzsimmons did not arrive in time due to the storm and so Umpire Kervan endeavored to hold down both jobs. Things did not go in a very smooth fashion and the Poughkeepsie players were rather prone to dispute the decisions of Kervan in regard to balls and strikes. Of course McCarthy, the Schatz catcher had to dispute just a little bit louder than all the rest. While McCarthy was protesting Umpire Fitzsimmons arrived and took his place behind the bat while Kervan went over to first to umpire the bases. McCarthy then singled. As soon as he reached first he proceeded to call Kervan every name that he could think of and otherwise conduct himself in a rather unsportsmanlike manner. Kervan ordered him to the bench. McCarthy and the whole Schatz team protested and refused, and then Kervan forfeited the game to Kingston by a 9-0 score. The Kingston management desired to give the fans a game and so they decided to have the game continued. Kervan refused to work and so Pete Jordan took his place on the bases.

Kahn Hit Freely.

As is usually the case the Colonials did not find Jerry Kahn much of a puzzle and they touched him up for ten safe blows. McCue, Dahn and Coyle both managed to get two hits apiece during the course of the afternoon while all the other players except Deegan and Culloton managed to get one apiece.

Colonials Cut Down Their Errors.

Sunday the Colonials cut down their total number of errors somewhat and only made two which was a decided help to Bud in his efforts to shut out the Poughkeepsie men.

Bobby Makes Spectacular Stop.

Bobby Coyle made a spectacular stop in the third inning which brought the fans to their feet. Kahn smashed a hot one directly over first base. Coyle, coming in like a race horse, made a dive for the ball and made a back hand stop of it.

Colonials Score In Third.

The Colonials annexed their first run in the third inning when Deegan drew a base on balls, McCue singled, and Coyle drove Deegan in home by a drive over third base.

One More In Fifth.

The Colonials annexed one more run in the fifth inning. Fogarty hit one which went for three bases and Dahn drove him in home by a single over third base.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE BIG LEAGUES

McQuillan produced further evidence to support the allegation that the Giants have no pitching staff by shutting the Reds right out, 2 to 0.

There were two out in the fateful ninth when Goslin stepped to the plate and drove in the winning run with a single the Senators topping the Indions, 6 to 5.

G. Herman Ruth, the outfielder, cuffed two homers out of the premises while the Yanks were beating the Browns, 9 to 8 in thirteen innings. Meusel produced the winning run with a single off Van Gilder.

Marquard was at his best and the Braves blanked the Cardinals, 4 to 0.

A two run rally in the ninth gave the Red Sox a 3 to 2 decision over the Tigers, Quinn getting the better of Sylvester Johnson.

The Dodgers again finished second to the Cubs, 4 to 3, being unable to annoy Alexander with any degree of frequency.
